FELLOWSHIP OF CATHOLIC UNIVERSITY STUDENTS

“I sense that the moment has come...”

FOCUS VISION

Answering the Church's call for a "New Evangelization," FOCUS, the Fellowship of Catholic University Students, is a national outreach that meets college students where they are and invites them into a growing relationship with Jesus Christ and the Catholic Faith.

LETTER FROM THE PRESIDENT

Dear Friends in Christ,

“I sense that the moment has come to commit all of the Church’s energies to a new evangelization...No believer in Christ, no institution of the Church can avoid this supreme duty: to proclaim Christ to all peoples.”

In the winter of 1990, Pope John Paul II wrote these words to the entire Church as a vital call to action in the name of Jesus Christ.

Twenty years later, on June 28, 2010, our Holy Father, Pope Benedict XVI embraced and re-ignited the urgency of this call, announcing the launch of a council for the new evangelization—emphasizing that now, more than ever before, is the time for all Catholics to answer that call with fervor!

Just over a decade since John Paul II’s words inspired FOCUS’ first seeds at a small college in Atchison, Kansas, our efforts have grown to a staff of over 250, reaching 50 campuses across the United States. At FOCUS, Pope Benedict XVI’s renewed charge brings us back to our roots in the new evangelization. And for that reason, our theme for the upcoming year is “Answering the Call”.

As the culture around us is devastated by sin, the urgent cry for an outpouring of Christ-like love and leadership grows stronger by the minute. As Christians, it is indeed our “supreme duty” to answer that call, sharing the person of Jesus Christ with all peoples. At FOCUS, our missionaries are fervently answering the call on college campuses. By inviting young men and women into a relationship with God, and showing them how to share His love with their peers, we are ultimately building up Christian leaders to fill our culture with the life and love it so desperately desires.

Certainly, in the midst of a global financial crisis, the past year has presented challenges, but with God’s grace and our mission fueling our energy, we forged ahead. We’ve rediscovered the unyielding strength and dedication of our staff through financial sacrifice, and put forth new efforts to fortify our financial stewardship. With the extraordinary action of our staff and benefactors, we have secured FOCUS’ mission for the future, and we will continue answering God’s call to proclaim Christ to the world.

Gratefully yours,

Curtis Martin

ANSWERING THE CALL ON CAMPUS

samantha's story

FOCUS missionary,
Angel Zamary
with Samantha

Samantha Kelley grew up in a Catholic family that went to church every Sunday. She was a top student, an incredible athlete, and her family had always been her solid foundation. At the end of high school, she was thrilled at her acceptance to play division-one soccer at the University of Connecticut and could not wait to live the life of a college athlete. That summer, she left home for the first time, eager to dive into her freshman year.

However, within months of arriving at UConn, Sam felt completely lost. Isolated from her friends and family, and buried under piles of unread books, Sam injured her knee and was left to sit on the sideline of the soccer field.

“I suddenly felt that everything I had was gone. I just had this hole in me that I didn’t know how to fill.”

Sam found herself in a dark place, looking for fulfillment and approval from the wrong people. “I started getting drunk and partying with my teammates, basing my own self-worth on everybody else. I was building up walls against the people around me, and I didn’t want to let them see who I really was.”

Throughout her struggles, Sam’s family began to worry. They encouraged her to find a student organization that could reunite her with her faith and teach her how to develop a relationship with God, but she felt incapable letting Christ into her heart. “I didn’t really know what a friendship with God looked like. I always thought of Him as an authoritarian figure, rather than someone who actually loved me and cared about what I was dealing with,” she explains.

In the height of August preseason before her junior year, Sam decided to return to Mass to escape the demanding schedule of her sport. Afterwards, as she attempted to sneak out the door, a FOCUS missionary named Angel approached her and struck up a conversation. Angel mentioned that she was leading a weekly Bible study and asked if Sam wanted to join.

Astounded by Angel’s sincere interest in her, Sam felt her usual defenses beginning to retreat.

“This girl was just so friendly and joyful, there was no way I could turn her down...I realized she had something I didn’t.”

Despite her participation in Angel’s Bible study, Sam continued to struggle with her fear of letting God into her life. Angel recognized that Sam was silently calling out for something more, and her prayers for Sam ultimately led her to an answer for samantha at university

that call; the upcoming FOCUS National Conference in Orlando. Although Samantha declined the invitation, citing the cost to get to Florida as her excuse, Angel was determined to find a way to get her there.

The day before UConn FOCUS students were scheduled to leave for Orlando, Angel approached Sam again with an overwhelming offer; she would pay Sam's way to the conference.

“Angel had invested in me like nobody ever had before, and she had been praying with me and for me since the first time we met.”

Once again, she could not say “no” to Angel.

In Orlando, Sam stood in awe of the multitude of Catholic students, and she took in the wisdom of the speakers like a sponge. But ultimately, it was Jesus himself who pierced her heart. “After Mass, we were praying and I felt the Lord asking me to surrender the rest of the conference to Him. I heard Him say ‘Sam, let your walls down.’”

Sam realized that she was on the edge of letting go, and knowing what she needed to do, she stepped into the line for confession. “That was really the final step for me,” she explained. “I was finally letting my guard down, and I poured my heart out to Jesus.”

After confession, she knelt down with nearly 4,000 other people, in preparation for Eucharistic adoration. As the Eucharist entered the room, Sam's body started trembling.

“It was like God was literally breaking down the walls around me. My whole being knew it was Jesus, and the hole I had felt for so long was instantly filled.”

Returning from Orlando, Sam's relationship with Christ was completely renewed, and she began to look at life through a different lens. “Angel was a wonderful model of what a Christ-centered friendship looked like, and I wanted to share that with my other friends and teammates. I feel like I've learned more about how to love as Christ loves: selflessly and unconditionally.”

Today, Sam attributes everything in her life to her trust in God.

“He has blessed me with the gifts I have, and I've learned to worship God through my sport. I now play for Him, recognizing that He is the reason I'm here...Christ has purified and filled me, and I can honestly say that I have never been so happy and so on fire for Him.” ●

made for more

“Counter cultural” was just one phrase used to describe the incredible impact of FOCUS’ National Conference 2010. The event’s theme, “Made for More,” echoed down the halls of the Orlando Marriott Resort, kicking off the new year with a renewed outlook for thousands of college students from hundreds of schools across the United States.

“The trip was truly life-changing,” remarks Sharon Sorcic. The Minnesota State University student traveled on a bus full of strangers for hours from Mankato, Minnesota to Orlando, Florida in hopes of finding some of the joy she saw in the FOCUS missionaries on her campus during the fall semester. At FOCUS Conference, Sharon encountered the love of Christ face-to-face in the Eucharist, forgiveness in reconciliation, and encouragement in the example of her peers who were seeking to grow closer to God.

Sharon returned to Mankato with a new identity, “I used to have a problem with feeling ashamed of my faith on campus as Catholics are so harshly scrutinized at times, but now I feel so empowered and proud to wear a cross and to be a living example of my faith on campus.”

The last FOCUS National Conference saw over 4,000 attendees ring in 2010 with joy and electricity as the balloons dropped at midnight during a live concert with Matt Maher. This year, FOCUS hopes to reach out to twice as many students who, like Sharon, are desperately searching for identity, purpose, and transformation in their lives.

FOCUS Conference 2011 will invite young men and women to four locations around the U.S. (Denver, St. Paul, Nashville, Baltimore) with the theme, “Answering the Call.” The three-day event will encourage and equip college students to respond to God’s work in their lives by taking an active role in building up the Church and sharing the love of God with other students on the college campus. ●

st. francis and st. claire awards

Each year, FOCUS selects two outstanding student leaders from host campuses across the U.S. for these prestigious awards in evangelization. These two students are not only leaders in their class, but authentic inspirations to our FOCUS staff and the campus ministries they serve. This year, FOCUS recognizes these truly faithful students who are answering the call on their college campuses...

St. Clare Award—Terese Decker

Between studying for graduate-level engineering courses, leading Bible study, and cultivating her own relationship with Christ, any student would be exhausted, but for Terese Decker, motivation is found in sharing the faith with her peers at the University of Colorado.

FOCUS missionary Hilary Rowe is astounded by Terese's extraordinary ability to reach out to fellow students. "She is committed to the making her relationships with people a priority. She spends most of her time, not necessarily at church, but in the engineering building working with other engineers. They all know how committed she is to her faith, and they always come to her with questions about Christianity. She is genuine and real with people, and this is a great asset to her apostolate!"

St. Francis Award—Michael Guenther

As far as the missionaries at the University of Nebraska can tell, there isn't anything that deters senior Michael Guenther from taking the lead. Remarks one UNL FOCUS missionary, "His self-motivation is incredible. He began his own Bible study and recruited nearly all of those men just by spreading the word."

This year, Michael helped open a campus household called the "Hippo House" under the patronage of St. Augustine of Hippo. The household of men focuses on the importance of prayer, fellowship, and personal discipline in each of their lives.

"Michael does nothing for the sake of recognition and has proven to have the heart of a true missionary. He has a huge impact on the men who live with him and is an unstoppable witness to his peers." ●

michael's story

Michael Preszler (bottom)
on mission in Kolkata, India sisters from missionaries of charity

“I cannot fathom that there is a place in the world such as this...”

It is 100+ degrees with nearly 100% humidity. There are hundreds of bodies sleeping on the sidewalks, draped over stone, half-hidden behind dugouts or burrows in the buildings.” Michael Preszler, a senior at South Dakota State University wrote these words in his journal on the second morning of his trip in Kolkata, India with the FOCUS Missions program.

Michael, eight other students, and five FOCUS missionaries witnessed extreme poverty every morning of the month that they volunteered with the Missionaries of Charity. Like all FOCUS mission trips, their time in Kolkata was meant to be one of heroic generosity in service as well as a time of spiritual growth, but for Michael, this trip would prove to be the adventure of a lifetime that would redefine love and selflessness forever.

Mother Teresa used to say, “Do not think that love, in order to be genuine, has to be extraordinary. What we need is to love without getting tired.” In the slums of Kolkata, where the Missionaries of Charity serve the poorest of the poor, these simple words take on incredible meaning. Michael and his group volunteered at various houses during their stay, but their first day was at Prem Dan, the home for the dying and destitute.

Everywhere they turned were men and women in their final moments of life, brought there by the sisters to die with dignity. “It was there, on my first day of work, that I realized Love (in all cases) is a choice,” Michael says.

He and the other volunteers helped where they could: dressing wounds, massaging deformities, and caring for various other needs. For Michael, it was a moment of conviction. “I realized that it was only through God’s grace and an environment such as Kolkata that God could reveal to me so distinctly my failures,” Michael says.

“The truth is, I witnessed selflessness and love that I had never thought possible.”

Michael’s observation is a beautiful example of why FOCUS Missions exists. While the primary mission field

“Evangelization means to set out with Christ to pass on the gift we have received, to transform poverty of every kind.” –Cardinal Joseph Ratzinger for FOCUS is the college campus, we are not tending souls in order that they remain there. FOCUS desires to raise up men and women who will bring the Good News of the Gospel to all humanity, both in the offices of corporate America and in the slums of the developing world.

Every year, FOCUS Missions leads young men and women to serve the suffering members of the Body of Christ in El Salvador, Jamaica, India, Alaska, the Bronx, New Orleans, Peru, Ghana, Mexico and the Philippines; as well as pilgrimages to Spain to walk the Camino de Santiago and to Lourdes, France. Michael's experience of renewed passion and conviction in India is just one example of the many lives that have been transformed by these missions.

Reflecting on his experience in Kolkata, Michael knows that just as God provided the grace to wash the wounds of a dying man, so too will he provide the grace to witness Christ to classmates and strangers in the cafeteria.

“I realized that selflessness and the desire to love could grow in us over time by the power of the Holy Spirit.”

“When selflessness begins to evolve, our personal daily sufferings become very minimal.” This realization is one of the many enduring graces that Michael and his companions are now bringing back to their families, friends, classmates, and co-workers. ●

focus contributors

Since 1998 FOCUS has been reaching college students for Christ and the Catholic Church through Bible studies, mentorship, mission trips, outreach events, and the personal invitations of FOCUS students and missionaries. This work would not be possible without the generous prayers and gifts of many supporters across the country. We would especially like to acknowledge those who have made gifts of $1,000 or more this fiscal year, along with the number of consecutive years they have been supporting FOCUS.
